2 BIOLIFE PLASMA SERVICES

One Baxter Parkway
Deerfield, IL 60015
224-948-1812
www.biolifeplasma.com

BioLife operates 100-plus plasmapheresis centers throughout the United States that collect plasma, the liquid portion of the blood, for processing into plasma-based products such as Albumin, Factor VIII and IVIG therapies.

Hemophilia

Baxter is a leading developer of clotting factors to treat hemophilia. This includes recombinant and plasma-based factor VIII – the clotting factor missing from the blood of people with hemophilia A – and therapies for people that develop inhibitors against clotting factor. Baxter also has a number of research and development programs aimed at improving the treatment of hemophilia and other bleeding disorders. These include a longer-acting (PEGylated) form of a full-length recombinant factor VIII protein, recombinant factor IX therapy for hemophilia B, a recombinant therapy for inhibitor patients and the first recombinant therapy for von Willebrand disease.

BioTherapeutics

Baxter is a leading provider of immunoglobulin therapies for patients with immune deficiencies. These plasma-derived therapies provide antibody replacement for patients whose immune systems do not produce enough antibodies to fight infection. In addition to primary immunodeficiency, the therapy also is being investigated for use in neurological conditions, such as Alzheimer's disease. In Europe, the therapy has been approved to treat multifocal motor neuropathy, a degenerative disease that attacks the peripheral nerves, resulting in progressive limb weakness. Other products include albumin, a plasma-volume expander used to treat burns and maintain adequate fluid volume in critical care patients, and alpha 1-proteinase inhibitor to treat alpha-1 antitrypsin deficiency, a respiratory condition that can result in early onset emphysema.

BioSurgery

In recent years, Baxter has attained technological leadership in the research and development of biosurgery products – biological and chemical products used to stop bleeding and seal wounds in surgery – and technologies to facilitate hard tissue regeneration in orthobiologics and soft tissue repair used in a variety of surgical procedures. The company's stem cell technologies are being explored for their potential to restore blood flow in patients with cardiovascular and peripheral artery disease.

Vaccines

Baxter provides vaccines for meningitis C, tick-borne encephalitis, and seasonal and pandemic influenza. Baxter's Vero cell technology, used in flu vaccine production, offers potential advantages over traditional egg-based vaccine production methods.

MEDICAL PRODUCTS

Baxter's Medical Products business manufactures products used in the delivery of fluids and drugs to patients. These include intravenous (IV) solutions and administration sets, premixed drugs and drug-reconstitution systems, pre-filled vials and syringes for injectable drugs, IV nutrition products, infusion pumps, and inhalation anesthetics. The business also is a leader in home-based renal therapies, such as peritoneal dialysis, and offers other products and services for people with end-stage kidney disease.

Fluid Systems

Baxter is the world's leading provider of commercially prepared IV solutions as well as frozen and ready-to-use premixed drugs in flexible IV containers. Baxter's portfolio of IV solutions and premixed drugs is the broadest in the industry. The company also provides IV infusion pumps and administration sets, which control the delivery of IV fluids and drugs to patients.

Specialty Pharmaceuticals

Baxter is a leading developer of products for parenteral, or IV, nutrition, which provides life-sustaining support for patients who cannot receive adequate nutrients orally or through other means. Baxter officers one of the broadest portfolios of parenteral nutrition, including solutions, container systems, admixing technologies, vitamins and mineral formulas. The company also is a leader in anesthesia and sells the three most commonly used modern inhaled anesthetics for general anesthesia. Baxter's Specialty Pharmaceuticals portfolio includes a short-acting, cardioselective-adrenergic blocker (beta blocker) used to control heart rate in patients who are at high risk for cardiac events during and after surgery.

Renal

Baxter is also a leading developer of products for peritoneal dialysis (PD), a home-based therapy for people with end-stage kidney disease. Products include PD solutions, automated cyclers, connectivity devices and ancillary supplies. In addition, the company distributes products for hemodialysis (HD), which generally takes place in a hospital or clinic, and is developing a home HD platform, which will provide another option for dialysis patients. Baxter also provides products for continuous renal replacement therapy, typically performed in the intensive care unit of a hospital, to treat acute renal failure.

BioPharma Solutions

Baxter advances the clinical and commercial development of innovative drug and drug formulation technologies through contract manufacturing. Products include prefilled injectable drugs in vials and syringes, lyophilized drugs, and biologics such as proteins and antibodies for biotechnology and pharmaceutical companies.
